COST OF LIVING.

FEDERAL INVESTIGATION

addition to the current investigations made by the Commonwealth Statistician (Mr. H. Knibbs) regarding variations in cost of living, based on monthly returns collected from retail merchants and house agents, the Minister for Home Affairs has authorized the Statistician to conduct an inquiry into expenditure on, and standards of, living by means of householders' budgets.

It is hoped in this way to acquire valuable information supplementary to that which is obtained from the current cost of living index. The Commonwealth Statistician is anxious to hear from persons willing to keep record of their household expenses from the statistician to conduct an inquiry into the nature, extent, and standards of, the

to the 23rd of November, 1913. A previous investigation on the same lines was made in Australia two years ago, but the number of budget books sent in was disappointing, and too small to enable the matter to be satisfactorily investigated. It is felt that too great a tax was perhaps placed on the shareholders by asking them that occasion to keep accounts for a whole year. The Australian hopes that a large number of shareholders, who were unable or unwilling to assist in the previous investigation, will be induced to do so, so that the books may be kept for the shorter period of four weeks.

Persons who forward their names will be sent a list of the names of the owners of the books; in which to keep the record, which, when completed, is to be placed in the envelope provided, and placed in the Commonwealth Statistician's Melbourne. Postage will be paid by the Bureau of Census and Statistics.

For information, the Commonwealth Statistician will be treated as confidential.

DEATH IN THE BUSH.—The remains of a painter and decorator named John Chapman—about 75, were discovered in the bush at Sutherland on September 10. The body was found in a position not previously recorded on an open verdict. Evidence was given by a friend of Chapman's, who said he had known him for many years, that he had been employed in odd jobs at Sutherland up till June 31 last. At that time he was in the best of a quiet mind, and he disappeared the following day. Dr. Stratford Sheldon expressed his opinion that Chapman had been dead about three months prior to the finding of the body.

BULGARIA FARMS BADLY.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 18.

It is officially stated that Turkey will re-occupy Adrianople, and the Turkish army is now marching on the city.

Bulgaria at the last moment offered to build a railway from Adrianople to Baba Dagi, but the offer was refused.

Bulgaria was forced to her, but Turkey declined to pay any indemnity.

The Black Sea frontier has been fixed at a point 25 miles north of Midia, the point of departure of the Turkish army.

Bulgaria's access to Dede Agach, a point on the Aegean, is relatively useless, as Turkey will be the only railway to it, and the cost of constructing another line from Midia to Pasha is estimated to be enormous.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

PEKING SILENT.

BRITAIN SUPPORTS HER ALLY.

China has not yet replied to the Japanese demand for an apology for the insult to the Japanese flag in Nanking and the dismissal of the Chinese Commander, General Chang Huan.

Before the note was sent, Japan consulted with Britain, and received a promise of diplomatic support.

Britain, however, deprecated military action, which, she pointed out, would be bound to encourage the partition of China.

There were riotous proceedings at Belfast on Thursday, when the workers' welcome to Constable, the man who was arrested in connection with the Dublin strike, and was released because he had successfully attacked the constable.

A number of rioters were discharged in the Phoenix Park, and the police were injured in the melee.

INDIAN POLICY.

LORD HARDING'S REVIEW.

DOMINIONS' RESTRICTION.

In adjourning the Legislative Council yesterday the Viceroy, Lord Hardinge, delivered an important review of Indian policy.

He emphasized the importance of the existence of India as an independent nation, and the need for a policy of friendly relations.

The Muslim community in India must not give an unreasonable interpretation to the idea of Islamic solidarity.

It is also stated that in the event of the strike taking place the issue in dispute will be taken up by the Government.

RECOVERED PEARLS.

STORY OF THE FIND.

MISTAKEN FOR MARBLES.

23000 FOR A PENNY.

In regard to the finding of the famous stolen pearl necklace by Augustus Horne, a workman, it is now known that the pearl was found in the vicinity of the house occupied by Gutwirth, one of the men accused of being concerned in the theft of the necklace.

After Horne picked up the pearl he went to a public-house, and showed the pearl to several of his fellow-workers, who said that they were heads, one of them remarking: "I've bought my baby a better necklace than that for a shilling half-penny."

Horne demurred, and decided to go to the police station. On his way he met an inspector, who when the pearl was shown to him, said: "You look like a marbler—take them home for the children to play with."

At the police station, the constables also were dubious.

Horne came out and told his companion that "the police had kept the beads," and that he had told the female searcher that "she could wear 'em."

"A PENNY FOR IT?"

The men then visited other public-houses, and suddenly Horne put his hand in his pocket and took out the pearl, saying: "Hullo! I've got one of 'em left. Will anyone give me a penny for it?"

Horne's brother George took the pearl and pretended to throw it away, but he stated that he had returned it to him.

This pearl, which is worth £23,000, has since disappeared, and Horne is unable to remember how it became lost.

The police have visited the public-house which Horne went to, and have searched the floors and the sweepings. They have also traversed the roads along which Horne walked during the day, but without result.

A BITTER DISAPPOINTMENT.

It is understood that the thieves carefully engineered the loss of the necklace, believing it to be comprised of diamonds, and they were bitterly disappointed on finding pearls, as diamonds are virtually untraceable.

QUADRANT'S PART.

The "Daily Chronicle" states that when the full story of the affair is told the main credit for the discovery will belong to Quadrant, who is a man of keen intellect and inflexible will and courage.

He was the principal of Brandt, who opened up negotiations with the thieves for the "purchase" of the pearls, and secured the full confidence of the gang, and acted as an intermediary, and was prepared to meet him anywhere, and do anything he asked them to do.

Though they were shadowed for twelve days, before they were arrested, the thieves' confidence in Quadrant was not shaken.

Brandt states that the Scotland Yard authorities last week informed him confidentially that they knew exactly where the necklace was, and was waiting to be taken.

"BETTER NOT ARREST ME."

The "Daily Citizen" states that a man called at Scotland Yard on Monday and complained that he was being shadowed, and suggested that if the police wanted to recover the pearls they had better not arrest him.

The man was eventually allowed to leave Scotland Yard.

Someone was waiting last morning in St. Paul's-road expecting another person to drop the pearls, but the man was not seen.

Horne himself stated that a man of foreign appearance and a woman dressed in black clothes, who were followed by a constable, were waiting last morning in St. Paul's-road.

The police are now endeavouring to trace these persons.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

MORE INCENDIARISM.

NORLEMAN'S MANSION DAMAGED.

Two housekeepers at Penarth, Lord Leile's residence at Tonbridge, Kent, found the billiard-room windows on fire this morning.

The outbreaks were extinguished. Rage soaked with petrol was discovered, and the men are full of indignation at the fire.

The mansion, which contains many valuable treasures, narrowly escaped destruction.

In a speech at Newry he said that a provisional Government would be set up in Ulster, though, of course, it would be illegal.

The raising of volunteers and drilling them was also illegal, but the Government did not break any interferences.

He advised his hearers not to be afraid of illegality, but only to assert the elementary rights of every citizen.

The Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Lloyd George, unexpectedly returned from the Continent, and is now staying with the Chief Whip in Scotland.

Mr. A. J. Balfour has gone to Balmoral.

RAILWAY DISASTER.

FRENCH TROOP TRAIN DERAILED.

Three carriages of a train on a light railway, crowded with soldiers, ran off the line at a crossing, and fell a distance of 80 ft. down a ravine.

Twelve men were killed and 30 injured.

The rescue work is still going on, but is being carried out with difficulty.

reading, because to the principle of super-annuation few men objected nowadays, his side of the House certainly did not, and there should be alterations and improvements in it. He made it further clear that the operation of the bill should not be limited to one section of the public servants.

MR. BEERY'S CONGRATULATIONS.
Mr. Beery congratulated the Ministry on the introduction of what he believed to be one of the best conceived measures submitted to the House for a long time past. His only regret was that the operation of the bill should not be limited to one section of the public servants.

MR. WOOD'S OBJECTION.
Mr. Wood objected to the scheme, because it did not include public servants who had been recollections of Labour orators and publicists who had said they would not allow public servants to load on the community by paying pensions.

Mr. Wood: It is not the first time they have changed their minds. We are getting used to it.

Mr. Wood: I don't say it is. We are getting used to it.

INCENDIARISM.

HAYSHED BURNED.

INVERELL, Thursday.

Another large shed on Dunlap, Ararat, was burned to the ground early this morning. The shed contained 120 tons of hay, and was consumed. There seems little doubt that the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Since the fire occurred on Tuesday morning last Mr. Bowling had a man watching the premises. The shed burned on the morning was situated on his land. At 2.30 o'clock he saw the reflection of a light at the far end of the shed, and on running towards it saw a man running away in the direction of the river.

The shed is partly covered by insurance. The hay was uninsured. The police are making inquiries. A black tracker was brought from Ashford to search the ground, but was not successful. The fire was caused by a man who had been on the long spout of dry weather that has been so far, but was unsuccessful.

HOUSE ON FIRE.

MOSMAN BLAZE.

A large two-story house in Raglan-street, Mosman, owned and occupied by Mr. W. N. McLeod, was seriously damaged by fire last night.

The cause of the outbreak is said to have been an explosion of gas in a bath-room, and by the time the firemen had gained a firm hold on the roof and contents of the first floor. The house was a large one, and was situated on a hill. The fire was caused by a man who had been on the long spout of dry weather that has been so far, but was unsuccessful.

The damage by fire was confined to the upper floor, but the contents of the ground floor were slightly damaged by water and removal.

During the height of the blaze the burning building presented a brilliant spectacle to the crowded ferry boats on the harbour.

ANTI-AUSTRALIAN AGITATION.

LONDON, Sept. 17.

Reuter's Agency in Colombo reports that an agitation has been started against the visit of the Australian cricket team to Ceylon in January, on the ground that Indians and Malays are prohibited from landing in Australia.

The Rev. E. F. Waddy stated last night that he received information from the last mail from Ceylon to the effect that all the arrangements are progressing satisfactorily in connection with the visit of the Australian cricketers. Waddy is distinguished cricketing expert; had any difficulty arising he thinks he would have been informed.

PARTY PROSPECTS.

MR. HOLMAN PREDICTS VICTORY.

"NO TIME FOR MISCHIEF MAKERS."

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

GUNDAGAI, Thursday.
The Premier says he anticipates a victory at the forthcoming State elections.

In an interview with a "Herald" reporter this evening he said that what he had seen of the attitude of the country residents towards the Government had satisfied him that there was no general reaction in favour of the Liberal party, such as was frequently counted upon in Liberal quarters.

As a matter of fact, the desperate efforts now being made to start third parties, independents, and farmers' and mechanics' candidates, indicated a widespread dissatisfaction with the Liberal movement. The Labour Government had made a few mistakes and had incurred a certain amount of criticism, but from Ashford to Sydney the ground was so hard that the Liberals had no time for mischief makers.

NEW HEBRIDES.

CONFERENCE WITH FRANCE.

A FEDERAL HOPE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, Thursday.
A deputation of clergymen of the Presbyterian Church and the Church of Christ waited on the Minister for External Affairs (Mr. Glynn) to-day to complain of the working of the joint convention between Great Britain and France in the New Hebrides.

The Rev. F. H. J. Paton, who has recently returned from the New Hebrides, said that English was understood by one only of the three Judges of the Joint Franco-British Court, and the atmosphere was distinctly unfavourable. There were a few offences which could be tried only by one of the national Courts, and it was practically impossible to bring in a Frenchman guilty of an offence against a British subject before the Joint Court. Again, the Joint Court, in many instances, did not give its decisions in favour of the British subjects.
